

Data Reflection Questions

These questions may be used to aid in thinking about how information provided in the community data profiles can lead to action.

1. What stands out for you in the data?
 - a. Does anything surprise you?
 - b. How does it align with what you already know or believe?

2. How can the data be used along with information from other sources? (For example, your own knowledge of the community or the results of your community needs and assets mapping activities.)

3. What ideas does it generate about actions LT or others might take to address needs and/or create new opportunities for thriving?

4. What else would you need to know to explore potential actions?
 - a. Who do you need to talk with to gather this information?
 - b. What other information resources would you look at?
 - c. What questions would you ask?
